

Prayer

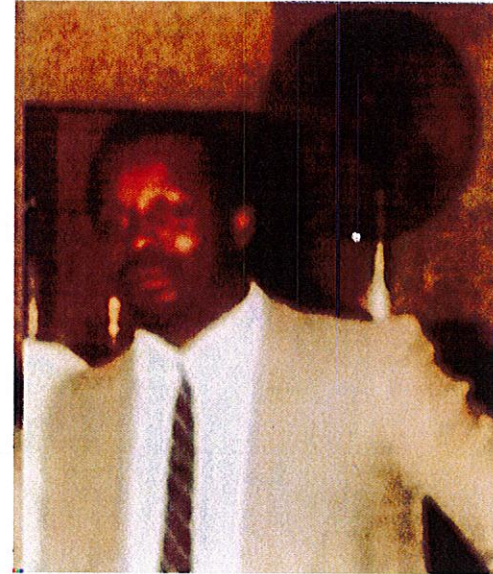

"Heavenly Father, as we come together to say our farewells to Our cherished brother, loving father, dear uncle, and devoted son, our heart is filled with a mix of gratitude and sorrow. Thank you for the gift of his presence in our lives, as a source of guidance, laughter, and unwavering support.

As we entrust him into your loving embrace, I pray for the peace that transcends understanding to envelop our grieving hearts. May the memories of his love and the legacy of his kindness continue to resonate in our lives.

Comfort us, his family, as we navigate this profound loss, and grant us the strength to carry on his spirit of warmth, compassion, and familial love.

In this time of sorrow, may your grace be our solace, and may we find solace in the shared memories that bind us as family. Amen."

Take me to the king
I feel like going on
Really gonna miss you

A sports enthusiast and a charismatic figure Lindsey was a friendly and energetic soul who touched the lives of many. As a student in Boston he developed a love for sports which made him a die hard fan of the New England Patriots. Lindsey also pursued a career as a chef and got the opportunity to do so at Wentworth institute and Northeastern University. Lindsey's true passion was cooking and bringing people joy through food. Lindsey had a love for steak n cheese subs and Hershey kisses which ironically was one of his last requests after the doctor removed him from the feeding tube.

Living a full and adventurous life, Lindsey was known as the life of the party, always there for friends in times of need. He leaves behind a daughter Kimberly Jackson, and is survived by his sisters Barbara Ann, Regina, Denise, brothers Ellis, Michael, and Tyrone. Also step brothers Larry, Sammy, Tommy, Robert, and Alan, as well as his only surviving uncle Clyde. Lindsey is also remembered fondly by a host of cousins, nieces, and nephews.

While Lindsey's departure leaves a void, we choose to put our energy into celebrating his journey, warm spirit, love for life, and culinary talents which will be dearly missed.

Poem

In the family's embrace, a cherished son,
A brother, a Father and friend, in laughter, fun, joy, and pain. He walks the path of faith with grace,
One of God's foot soldiers, in this sacred space.

In the warmth of home, his love does glow,
Through highs and lows, he helps us grow.
A bond that's nurtured, heart and soul,
In this family, he plays a vital role.

With love and gratitude, we now must part ways, to
A son, a father, an uncle, our brother, A beautiful black man in the warmth of his mother's embrace once again.
Till we meet again, with hearts anew,
Goodbye for now, until we meet again.
